Conference Notes

This study aims at evaluating the V. International Anatolian Conference in Economics (Econanadolu 2017) organized by the Department of Economics, Faculty of Economics and Administrative Sciences of Eskişehir Anadolu University between 11-13 May 2017. The main aim of this congress was bring to academicians from all over the world together to discuss new outcomes within theoretical and applied economics research, exchange ideas and create a research network for future joint collaborations.

Econanadolu 2017 included many economic fields such as microeconomics, macroeconomics, international trade, health economics, political economy, industrialization, sustainable development. There were many national and international important academicians and researchers in the both scientific committee and the regulatory committee of the conference. This conference provided opportunity to work both in English and Turkish. At the same time, there was an opportunity to publish their work in a number of indexed journals. The Conference was supported by many respected institutions such as Anadolu University, Ministry of Tourism and Culture.

This congress had been invited as a lecturer by many distinguished academicians and researchers such as Rodeje Zugic (Governor, the Central Bank of Montenegro), Yilmaz Akyuz (the South Center, Switzerland) and Ali T. Akarca (University of Illinois at Chiago, USA). Yılmaz Akyüz made a presentation on "The State of the World Economy: From Crisis to Crisis". Akyüz had presented about recent trends in the world economy and underlying factors. Another important participant who invited Ali T. Akarca, made a presentation on "One-Party Governments Generating Coups, Coalition-Generating Coups and Economic Effects". These presentations provided discussion about the economic, social and political situation of Turkey for all participants. After these presentations, Sessions were held such as Stock Market, Development, Environmental Economics, Education, Productivity and Efficiency, Selected Topics in Economics, Turkish Economy, Growth, R & D and Technology, Poverty and Human Development, Finance and Industrial Cluster, Labor Market during the congress. More than 200 papers were presented during these sessions.

I made a presentation on the last day of the congress on May 13, 2017. In my session, R & D and Technology, 4 papers were presented. I secondly made a presentation on "The Importance of Technoparks in National Innovation Systems: A Case of Turkey". The main aim of this study was to examine whether they act in the direction of their organizational goals and investment, employment, intellectual property rights and sectoral relations of technoparks in the national innovation system in Turkey. It was important to emphasize the importance of technoparks in terms of the emergence, development and diffusion of technology and to put their economic effects in Turkey. My session ended the giving of the participation certificate. After the presentations had been completed, both audiences and the chairman had made very important assessments and feedbacks.

As a result, this congress offered participants and researchers the opportunity to evaluation and discussion their own work. This congress had been an important source of experience for young researchers and academicians. At the same time, Eskişehir had also undertaken an important mission in introducing the historical and modern beauties it has. This congress had been a successful congress both scientific and cultural.
